The health promotion systems assessment tool is designed to assess how the systems that support health promotion are working in your service. This scoring form provides for distinct scoring of system components and the items within those components.

The scores are used to map system capacity for health promotion. The map is provided in a report which can be used to set goals and plan strategies for improving the quality of health promotion practice.

Please provide a sentence explaining the justification for the score your service decides upon for each item. These justifications need to be entered onto the web-based information system along with the numerical score.
